Shrek Tales is our Spring Show in our "Staged Stories" program. This program exists to give young people an opportunity to work with an already written and established script, unlike most of our programs that focus on devising and writing new material. In this program we focus on learning and applying the fundamentals of performing. It's a low-stakes performances where students can really just focus on having fun while they are introduced to the process of putting on a staged production. Today you will be seeing them showcasing skills such as: memorizing, projecting, cheating out, choreography, blocking, staying in character, and so much more!
